Many departments feel that aggressive truck company operations are unsafe, however this class helps us understand the importance for aggressive truck functions. Current trends in building construction actually call for more aggressive truck company functions, not less.

The Tactic of Vent, Enter, and Search is widely misunderstood and underutilized. When used properly VES is actually the safest and most effective way to search a building. This class teaches how to utilize the tactic in a safe and efficient manner to maximize our effectiveness on the fireground, and to increase the potential to save trapped victims.
